Goiás Thermal Waters Region

Located in the southeast region of Goiás, the Águas Quentes Region (Thermal Waters Region) is the smallest in territorial terms, but the most prominent in leisure tourism in the State. It is in this region that the largest hydrothermal resort in Latin America is located. This oasis of flowing, naturally thermal water that feeds pools in water parks and resorts is located in the heart of Brazil, ready to welcome you.

This characteristic allowed the region to develop a large infrastructure of clubs and hotels to welcome tourists looking to enjoy its natural thermal waters. The region also offers different segments of tourism: leisure, business, religious, ecological, gastronomic, among others.

How about getting to know this paradise far beyond the thermal waters?

An experience beyond the waters
